Competition Commission Concludes Inaugural International Conference
The Hong Kong Competition Exchange 2018

The Competition Commission (Commission)'s inaugural conference, The Hong Kong Competition Exchange 2018, ended on a high note today after two days of lively and inspiring discussions on competition law and policy by over 30 local and overseas judges, legal practitioners, law enforcers, academics and business leaders.

Opening the second day of the conference was a panel on 10 years of China's Anti-monopoly Law where representatives of the Mainland's competition agency, top level expert advisory committee and judiciary discussed and shared their reflections on enforcement, latest development of the law as well as the challenges ahead, providing important references for the global practice of competition law. The last panel was tailored for young competition agencies on how to fulfill their missions more effectively and efficiently through international cooperation and local collaboration.

In closing the conference, Mr. Brent Snyder, CEO of the Commission, said, "I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to our distinguished speakers from Hong Kong and around the world for their support and contribution to this milestone event of the Commission. It has also been our great pleasure to welcome 250 local and overseas guests from 20 countries to explore the many new ideas and concepts generated during the event that will underscore the development of sustainable competition regimes for the city and across jurisdictions going forward."

"This conference is a testimony to the Commission's ongoing commitment to fostering exchange of expertise and experience as well as collaboration across jurisdictions. We will continue to work on this through our brand new 'Competition Exchange' platform, towards achieving the goal of advancing market competition for the benefits of all."

Concluding the conference today was the award presentation ceremony of the Commission's tertiary education campaign "Post to Compete" Social Media Advocacy Challenge. Team "Two Marketers" from the University of Hong Kong was named winner for their creativity in transforming the abstract and complex concept of market sharing into an amusing story with an analogy that would resonate with the youth. The reproduction of the winning drama was premiered at the ceremony and will soon be launched on various promotion platforms in the territory.

The first and second runners-up are team "Go & Compete!" formed by students from the Open University of Hong Kong and Hong Kong Baptist University and team "OK" from the University of Hong Kong respectively.
